

Oh no, what a mess! A minute ago it was a beautiful little car. When the key was turned, it drove and rumbled almost like a big car that carries people. But Charlie took a hammer and pounded on it until it was just some tin and gears. And why did he do it? Because he likes breaking toys. Doesn't he know that he shouldn't do that?

Of course he knows.
That's why he's running away.
